Notice

To achieving positive health outcome related to maternal and new-born service delivery, the state government has decided to roll out midwifery service to improve the quality of care and ensure respectful care to pregnant women and new-borns. The state government has planned to create a new cadre of nurse practitioners in midwifery to promote natural birthing and expand quality maternal and neonatal services in remote areas. Eighteen months training would be provided to nurses to create a cadre of midwives who are knowledgeable and capable of providing high quality compassionate women centred reproductive, maternal and new-born health care services. After completion of the training programme the trained midwives will be placed at the Midwifery Led Care Units of public health facilities at the different level. The process of establishing National Midwifery Training Institute has already started in NRS MCH, Kolkata.
